

Updates on TAPAS, 2017

Northeastern University

TAPASPROJECT

TAPAS in brief

- “Omeka for TEI”? But so much more...
- A free benefit of TEI membership
- Long-term repository storage for TEI data
- 300 registered users (up from 128)
- 916 TEI files (up from 450)
- 50 TAPAS projects (up from 27)
- Some impact on TEI membership
- Thanks to the TEI-C for its support!

TAPAS so far

Initial development, 2011-2014 (Brown Univ)

- Build and test user interface
- Begin recruiting users, further needs assessment

Repository development, 2014-2017 (Northeastern Univ)

- Build repository and XML functions
- Re-engineer UI in Hydra
- Update user interface

TAPAS Classroom, 2016-2017

- Expand view packages
- Develop support for instructors

Work in progress

- Completion of ~~Hydra~~-Samvera rebuild
- Streamlined work flow
- New/improved viewing options
- Full implementation of TAPAS Commons
- Validation

Next steps

- Develop broader pedagogical partnerships with TEI community
- Build the TAPAS Commons
- Expand support for validation
- Your ideas?

Thank you!

The TAPAS team
info@tapasproject.org
@TAPAS_Project

Syd Bauman, Ashley Clark, David Cliff, Ben Doyle, Julia Flanders, Scott Hamlin, Bill Quinn, Sarah Sweeney, Eli Zoller
Digital Scholarship Group, Northeastern University Library

And our wonderful team of users and testers

Northeastern University

TAPASPROJECT